"A giant step for walking tour enthusiasts. All that one requires to explore the streets of Singapore."

-- Dr. Sharon Siddique --This text refers to an out of print or unavailable edition of this title.

Gregory Byrne Bracken is a Marshall Cavendish author.

I just got back from Singapore and found this book a little hard to use. The descriptions seemed a little off for some reason. In certain sections of the town, side walks go underground and are a little confusing to follow to make sure you get up on the right side of the street. Enjoyed the facts and information descriptions of the buildings and major interest sights.

This is a charming walking tour/guidebook that really enhanced my recent trip to Singapore. The layout of the book is easily accessible and the line drawings throughout are a beautiful touch. The walks themselves are well thought out and obviously meticulously researched and planned by the author himself. I especially liked the Did You Know? sections dotted throughout which contain little tidbits of unusual facts and information not often found in other guidebooks. This is definitely a must for any visitor who wants to see more than just the tourist side of the city. I highly recommend it. Also worth checking out are the other guidebooks in this series that do walking tours of Bangkok and Hong Kong.

What a nice idea! Easy-to-follow walks through the different parts of the city, plenty of advice on what to see and do, as well as a wealth of architectural and historical information, and all accompanied by delightfully hand drawn sketches by the author. A lovely, useful guide, and very pretty too. Highly recommended!
