“A must-have for choosy rosarians seeking specific effects for their gardens. --Walla Walla Union Bulletin, WA

BRAD JALBERT is a leading hybridizer of miniature roses in the Northwest, having introduced over 20 new varieties to date. He started growing roses as a hobby in 1984 (his personal garden now has over 700 roses) and is the owner of Select Roses, just across the 49th parallel in Langley, BC. LAURA PETERS is a certified Master Gardener with more than 15 years of experience as a retail gardening consultant. She also researches and writes gardening books. Her practical knowledge of contemporary plant varieties and gardening products covers almost every aspect of the horticulture industry. Her areas of interest include roses, alpiners and exotic perennials and Japanese gardening.

Arrived in excellent condition. The book didn't have as many Hybrid Tea varieties as I had hope for, but the pictures and information provided were very good.

This is the book I recommend to people who live in the Northwest and want to learn about roses. There are many great rose books out there, many more informative and with more pictures... but for folks who are just starting out too much information can be confusing and frustrating. This is a great book for people that want to try to grow roses, but are intimidated by the selection at the local nurseries. Or for people who have tried to grow roses before, and have been disappointed with the results. The roses listed aren't the ONLY roses that will grow here by any means, but it acts like a cheat sheet, naming varieties that are likely to do well here regardless of the experience of the gardener. I especially like that they encourage people to try old garden roses and Rugosas, which are sometimes snubbed in other beginning rose books in favor of Hybrid teas. For the beauty of the pictures and many varieties, I would encourage rose lovers to also purchase Random House Book of Roses by Roger Phillips. The color photographs look so real you swear you can smell them!
